

Mr. BONIOR. I yield to the gentleman from Pennsylvania.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to announce that the House has concluded its legislative business for the week.

We will meet on Monday, July 22, at 10:30 a.m. for Morning Hour, and 12 noon for legislative business. Members should note that the House will postpone any recorded votes until 5 p.m. On Monday the House will first consider a number of bills under suspension of the rules before turning to the District of Columbia Appropriations Act. Mr. Speaker, I will not read through the list of suspensions now, but a complete schedule will be distributed to all offices.

On Tuesday, July 23, the House will meet at 9 a.m. for Morning Hour, and 10 a.m. for legislative business. We hope to consider the following measures: H.R. 2779, the Soft Metric Conversion Act, on the Corrections Day Calendar; H.R. 3564, the NATO Enlargement Facilitation Act, as a suspension; and H.R. 3814, the Commerce, Justice, State appropriations bill, which will be taken up under an open rule.

For Wednesday, July 24, and the balance of the week the House will consider the following bills: H.R. 3814, the Energy and Water appropriations bill, under an open rule; H.R. 3760, the Campaign Finance Reform Act, under a modified closed rule; and H.R. 2391, the Compensatory Time for All Workers Act, which will be granted a rule next week.

Due to the full agenda next week, we may have to work later on Tuesday and Wednesday nights. However, we will finish legislative business by 2 p.m. on Friday, July 26.

I would also like to remind the Members that on Thursday, July 25, the annual congressional baseball game will be held, and I believe we can finish the votes that night in time for batting practice.

It is my personal hope that the Republicans' stellar one-game winning streak can be extended, although I understand that the Democrats have gotten themselves an unusually good left field this year and that may cause us a problem.

I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Mr. BONIOR. Mr. Speaker, I would say to my friend, the gentleman from Pennsylvania, that having just come from practice today, I can assure the gentleman that the Democrats are very strong up the middle, and I would also say to my friend, the gentleman from Pennsylvania, on the way to practice this morning I went by the field that the Republicans were practicing on and I noticed everybody shagging fly balls along the right field line, so we are looking forward to the game, and we are pleased that we will be out on time to enjoy that evening next Thursday.

Mr. Speaker, I have a comment or a question to raise to my friend, the gentleman from Pennsylvania. He mentioned late nights next week on Tuesday and Wednesday, I believe. How late is the gentleman anticipating that we might be those evenings?

Mr. WALKER. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will continue to yield, I would say to the gentleman that we are going to proceed under open rules on the appropriations bills. I think the Members could expect that it could go until 9, 10, or 11 o'clock on those two evenings.

Mr. BONIOR. I thank the gentleman for that information.

How about Friday? Are we certain to have votes on Friday, and if so, does the gentleman anticipate a certain specific bill coming up on Friday?

Mr. WALKER. We have a very full legislative calendar. If we could get through some of this expeditiously and complete the schedule, including not only the appropriations bill but the compensatory time bill and some of those, it is possible, this gentleman would love to think personally that it could take place that we would not have a session on Friday, but we would intend to complete the schedule, and I think now Members should plan on a Friday session being over by 2 o'clock.

Mr. BONIOR. Mr. Speaker, we were all very disappointed to see that virtually all of the items on reform week were pulled from the schedule this week. We hate for all of these reform measures to die in this Congress. Is the gentleman sure we are going to deal with campaign reform next week?

Mr. WALKER. That is certainly our intention. We believe it will be up on Wednesday if the time for the appropriation bills allows that. If not, it would probably come on Thursday.

Mr. BONIOR. Finally, Mr. Speaker, let me just say to my friend, the gentleman from Pennsylvania, and to others on the other side of the aisle who may want to comment on this, Members on this side of the aisle and the public in general have been reading conflicting reports from the Republican leadership about the continuing resolution and a possible early adjournment date in this Congress.

On the one hand we are hearing that. On the other hand, the chairman of the Committee on Rules, the gentleman from New York [Mr. SOLOMON], has said that we have more than 85 more bills to finish before we adjourn in this Congress.

We have so much unfinished business, including all the appropriations bills, the health care reform bill, the minimum wage bill, the welfare reform bill that we passed today that has to be processed, and so many others, we are on our side very concerned that it appears that Congress will fail to pass the regular appropriation bills again this year, and that we may have to consider another continuing resolution.

Can the gentleman advise us over here what the possibilities are of another CR, and when in fact that might happen?

Mr. WALKER. We will complete our appropriation bills in the House next week. Of course, we cannot predict what the gridlock in the Senate may produce in terms of bills reported from there, but it is certainly our intention to complete as many of the appropriation bills as possible, if not all of them, before the House adjourns.

The gentleman is correct that this House does have much other business to be done, and it seems to me that we are going to want to complete our work before settling on an adjournment date.

Mr. BONIOR. That is good to hear. I thank my colleague for his comments. We will look forward to finishing our business before we leave this Congress.
